Whitcomb, engineer in charge of the James river improvement. As this important work goes on and the river is deepened to accommodate vessels of greater draft, we may expect to see some revival of our shipping interests at the port of Richmond, a matter in which the community and especially all business-men cannot feel too deep a con-

The health of Richmond has been most gratifying, and the vital statistics are now such as to fully vindicate its repu-tation as one of the healthtest cities in

Our educational facilities continue year Our educational facilities continue year by year to increase and improve, and in-deed in every particular Richmond has never been, so far as local conditions are concerned, in a position to offer more at-tractions and advantaged as a place of residence or a business centre. Notwithstanding the dult times, both the city and its suburbs have continued to become more beautiful and attractive. While the amount of building in progress has, of course, not kept pace with that of years immediately preceding the present, new structures may be seen in almost every direction. The State Library building will be ready for accurancy early in ing will be ready for occupancy early in the year, which will render the valuable State Library more available and useful to the public than it has ever been, and thus supply a want long felt in the com-

Our elegant up-town hotel, "The Jefferson," will be completed during the coming year, and offer such an attractive southern hostelry to visitors that doubtless their number will be greatly increased, which will in many ways operate to the advantage of the city. Plans are now said to be ready to begin another handsome depot, which will be of a character to compensate the public for the acter to compensate the public for the delay in consummating the necessary ar-The Chamber, like all other institutions, closely identified with the business inter-ests of the city, has felt the times sensibly in its affairs. It has, nevertheless, endeavored to carry on its very important work without discouragement. Since the annual meeting it has had its other regular meetings and considered the usual number of questions relating to business affairs. In addition to these, it has or-ganized a new and important department, known as its "Traffic Bureau," an agency which must prove of the greatest value to our mechants and manufacturers in all our merchants and manufacturers in all matters relating to transportation, and thus place Richmond upon the same foot-ing with other progressive cities in this

IMMIGRATION AND GOOD ROADS. In October an "immigration convention" was held in the Chamber's rooms under the auspices of the Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical Society, which resulted in the organization of an immigration association for Virginia, designed to secure a thrifty white agricultural class for the farm lands of the State, for which movement the conditions are especially favora-ble, and the motives prompting it most powerful, both in Virginia and it the sections from which immigrants are ex-pected.

In conclusion, it is most gratifying to note the manner in which each recurring year marks the growth of our city in the minds and affections of our southern people, not only as a growing business-centre, but as one from which radiate those influences which should, and do, reflect the true sentiment and control the highest and noblest interests of our people. In other words, I believe that Richmond is more truly the representative mond is more truly the representative city of the South to-day than at any other period in its history, GEORGE L. CHRISTIAN,

OUR MANUFACTURING INTERESTS.

The Number of Operatives Reduced, But the Last Few Months Show Gratifying Improvement.

The following table presents the industrial exhibit for the year 1894 of Richmond and suburbs, including those industries of Manchester whose principal offices are in this city. The totals show 867 plants employing 17,599 operatives, and having an aggregate capital of $15,445,800. The total sales for 1894 were $11,681,030, a decrease of 13.9 per cent. over 1893.

There is a decrease in the number of operatives employed, as compared with last year, of about 3,348, but had the figures been taken in July instead of now the number would have been larger. During the past four months there has been improvement in orders for nearly all kinds of manufactures, and forces have been increased. Orders continue to improve, and each week seems to add to the list of the industries resulting operations. Iron has, however, been extremely dull, as railway building has been almost suspended, and the price of the article has declined right along, steel rails a few weeks past reaching the lowest point yet recorded.

RICHMOND CHURCHES AND THEIR SUNDAY SCHOOLS

THE RELIGIOUS CONDITION OF THE CITY NOW AS COM-PARED WITH TEN YEARS AGO.

Many New Congregations Formed and Houses of Worship Erected---Healthy Growth in the Membership During the Last Twelve Months.

The year just closed was one of growth and advancement along all lines of church work in Richmond. The fact that the business depression threw a great many people out of employment caused a slight falling off in contributions, but the re was a gratifying increase in membership, and the Sunday schools show greater strength than a year ago. The great Moody meetings in the spring resulted in hundreds of conversions, and there have been many successful revivals held since. In the table following the names of the churches, the number of members, the collections for the year, the number of officers, teachers, and se holars in the Sunday school, and the names and residences of the pastors are given. The total membership is 42,730 as comparted with the Sunday school and the names and residences of the pastors are given. The total membership is 42,730 as comparted with the Sunday school and the names and 22,365 scholars. There have been 28 new churches organized in Richmon 1 within the last ten years, there has been an increase of some 9,000 in church membership, and the Sunday schools show nearly as rapid growt h.

The lee on the various pends in and around the city continues firm and thick, and the skaters in large numbers were out yesterday. At Reservoir and Forest Hill parks the lakes have been swept of the snow, and the crystal surface is as smooth as a ball-room floor ready for as a ball-room floor ready for to-day's skating. In order that the sport may not be interrupted by nightfall, the lakes have been lighted by electricity. A gentleman was badly shaken up by a fall on the ice at Forest Hill Sunday afternoon, but was reported better warden of St. Paul's church.

To Receive President Lee.

President John A. Lee, of the National Travellers' Protective Association of America, will visit the Virginia Division Thursday, and on that night he will be tendered a reception in the rooms of the division, in the Chamber of Commerce building. Prior to this reception the President will be welcomed in the Chamber assembly-room, where addresses will be made by several representative businessmen.

The officers of the Tirst Regiment met at the Armory last night in pursuance to an order from Colonel Jones, and for two hours remained its the headquartersroom, in heated discussion. The reporters were Benied admission to the room, and the officers were all strictly enjoined not to discuss what took place, It leaked out, however, that the meeting it leaked out, however, that the meeting was called by Colonel Jones for the purpose of having a committee appointed to examine into the books of the regiment, he having heard that the officers who are at variance with him had stated that he had misapplied the regiment's names of those why compose it could not be learned.

Captain George Weyne Anderson, who is the recognized leader of the anti-Jones forces, was seen by a Dispatch man prior to the meeting last picht, and said that he had heard that Colonel Jones was imbued with the idea that he (Captain Anderson) and his associates believed that he had appropriated the regimental funds to his own use. "This," said Captain Anderson, "is absolutely a wrong innis to its own use. This, said Cap-tain Anderson, "is absolutely a wrong impression. We have never for an instant thought that Colonel Jones was guilty of anything criminal, but we do contend that he has appropriated some of the funds for the regiment's use in a different manner from what some of us thought was proper or destrable."
